The Chromatic Notation

Chromatic notation is a system of musical notation that uses accidentals to indicate the alteration of notes from their natural state. In Bach's time, this notation was often used to create chromaticism, the use of notes outside the standard diatonic scale.

In the BWV787-801 Sinfonias, Bach employs chromatic notation to enhance the melodic contours and harmonic progressions. By adding accidentals, he introduces unexpected intervals, creating a sense of tension and release that adds depth and complexity to the music.

The Blank Edition

The BWV787-801 Blank Edition presents the Sinfonias without any accidentals. This allows performers to interpret the music freely, exploring the chromatic possibilities and creating their own unique interpretations.

The Blank Edition is an invaluable tool for:

- * Music students who want to delve into the intricacies of Bach's counterpoint and harmony
- * Performers who seek to explore the expressive potential of the chromatic notation
- * Scholars and researchers who study the evolution of Baroque music
